

Points to Keep in Mind When Preparing an Application Form for Candidates (Fellows)

1. Application forms come in two types: FORM 1 and 2. They can be downloaded from JSPS's website (<http://www.jsp.go.jp/english/e-fellow/index.html>).
2. These forms are certified by JSPS. Be sure NOT to alter size or format (except size and font of characters) of the forms, or to plagiarize the contents of other applicants (host researchers). Incomplete, altered or otherwise flawed applications will be rejected. JSPS may withdraw the fellowship, stop allowances (including that for air tickets), or request the return of money already paid if the fellowship has been awarded on the basis of false statements in the application form.
3. Candidates are required to fill out FORM 2 in either English or Japanese. The form should be printed out on both sides of each sheet of paper, for a total of three sheets (six pages front and back). If your printer does not have this function, print out all the pages on one side, and copy the pages back-on-back so to compile them into three sheets. Then, sign the form on its last page, and submit it to your host researcher, who is required to fill out FORM 1.

Note:

- Image data of candidate's signature pasted on the form is acceptable.

4. Candidates should prepare one letter of recommendation from their PhD dissertation advisor or other supervisory faculty member and attach it to their FORM 2.

Note:

- One letter of recommendation written by one person can be attached. If the candidate has two or more letters, please choose one.
- As a rule, the letter should be addressed to either candidate's prospective host researcher or to the president of the Japan Society of the Promotion of Science.
- Submit the original signed letter. (Image data of recommender's signature is acceptable.)
- The letter should be written in English or Japanese. If another language is used, be sure to provide a translation in either English or Japanese.
- The letter, including the translation, should be no longer than two A-4 size sheets (up to four pages front and back).
- The letter may not be prepared by the prospective host researcher him/herself. If the prospective host researcher was the candidate's PhD advisor or supervisor, then another faculty member, such as one who participated in the candidate's dissertation reviewed and/or who is familiar with the candidate's research, should be asked to prepare this letter of recommendation.

5. The applicant (host researcher) should fill out FORM 1 and submit it together with the candidate's FORM 2 and the attached letter of recommendation to his/her institution's administrative office. In this program, the applicant is the host researcher.

Note:

- If the applicant (host researcher) is a foreign researcher and unable to write that much Japanese, a Japanese officer of the host institution may fill out the form as long as the host fully understands and agrees to the content of the application.
- JSPS receives the application via the host institution's administrative office. It will not accept applications submitted directly by the applicant (host researcher) or candidate.

6. The application submission periods for the host institution's administrative office are as follows:

1st recruitment: Arrive by 29 August - 2 September 2016

2nd recruitment: Arrive by 24 April -28 April 2017

Note:

- As these application periods are for the host institution, applicants (host researchers) should submit their applications to the administrative office well in advance of them.
- Candidates should check with their host researcher or institution as to the institution's application periods.
