【Project Name】

Multilateral education and research program for a symbiosis society in East Asia

【Project Outline】

Among the world becoming more and more complicated, East Asia is one of the region where accepting different culture beyond the border does not always lead to the mutual understanding. Therefore it is urgent to develop a grand design for mutual understanding and coexistence within the area, which needs deeper comprehension and broader knowledge concerning the cultures developed in the long history of the East Asia.

Under these circumstances, this program aims to cultivate talent of young scholars by giving a multiple training based on the East Asian studies developed in both Asian and European countries, which goes across the disciplines of humanities and social sciences at the same time. After completion of the training, they will contribute toward establishing a grand design of mutual understanding and coexistence of people in the East Asia, where political and cultural matters are complicatedly entangled.

Concretely, our goal is to develop young scholars' capacity of research in the East Asia and advance their ability in academic writing and their presentation skill in foreign languages enough to be active in the front-line of the international arena.
