

【Name of Project】 CAMPUS Asia Pilot Program (Adopted year: FY 2011, Type A-I)

Plan for a Joint Campus representing Korea, China and Japan which will foster leaders in East Asian humanities for the next generation.

【Aim of Project & Ideals of Global Human Resources】

The program is designed to nurture East Asian leaders for the next generation who have insight into regional issues, knowledge of humanities, and a good command of three languages: Korean, Chinese and Japanese.

【Summary of Project】

With the network established with Guangdong University of Foreign Studies (Guangzhou, China, hereinafter referred to as "GDUFS") and Dongseo University (Busan, Korea, hereinafter referred to as "DSU") in 2003, the three universities select pilot students from each country and jointly run a 4-year curriculum with a campus mobility system as the core of the program.

Forming the University Network with Quality Assurance

Reflection on the Pilot Program and Establishment of a Permanent Program Framework

Aiming for the start of permanent program from AY 2016, on-site staff members at each university reflected on the current pilot program and examined the framework of the permanent program and curriculum based on their findings during working-level meetings.

The 1st External Assessment Committee and Tri-nation Joint University Faculty Meeting

The three universities jointly held faculty meetings in November 2014 and April 2015. Moreover, In June 2014, the 1st External Assessment Committee meeting was held at RU and the activities conducted in AY 2013 received high evaluation from the committee members.

Questionnaire to Assess Academic Achievement

In August 2014 and April 2015, the 3rd and 4th round of questionnaires to assess academic achievement were given to students along with feedback regarding the results of the 1st and 2nd questionnaires. In addition, experts in their respective fields have been measuring and verifying the effects of this project from the perspectives of multi-language learning and international educational research. There are also plans to progress with interdisciplinary joint research in the future.
