A Spiral Model of Collaborative Education: Balancing Global and Local Values through Legal Mind

【Aim of project, Ideals of Global Human Resource on the project】

To foster experts bridging ASEAN and Japan who value universal principles whilst understanding local diversities through the development of a legal mind.

【Summary of project】

A comprehensive cooperative program with four leading universities in ASEAN, namely the National University of Singapore, Malaya University, Chulalongkorn University, Ateneo de Manila University, including inter alia short-term and semester-length exchange as well as double-degree-programs.

■ Developing a University Network & Ensuring Quality Assurance

○ Japan's first LL.M. --- the basis of the Project

Japan's first LL.M. program, taught entirely in English, was launched in 1994 at Kyushu University. Since then, we have been providing legal education of global standards to approx. 400 graduates.

(Graduation Ceremony of LL.M., LL.D., and YLP)

○ Framework of Quality Assurance in Cooperation with Partners

The following four elements ensure the quality of the program: ① Seminar with all partners for the mutual acknowledgement and identification of high standards of quality assurance ② Grading by ACTS ③ Creating systems for thesis supervision within a double-degree-program ④ Final presentation by participating students.

■ Contents of the Program, Preparation for the Start of the Program

(Philippine Science High School)

○ Short-term Exchange --- Gate Way to the SEND Program

This primarily consists of ① Training program (including training of local languages and Japanese teaching support) ② Joint seminars with the students of Law and Japan Studies at the partner universities ③ Workshops at local high schools on three topics (a "spiral approach"), "Conflict Management", "Cultural Heritage and Cultural Identity", "Cool Japan Policy" designed mainly for undergraduate students.

○ Semester Exchange and Double Degree Program

Designated mainly for the students who have experienced the Short-term exchange (the "upstream spiral"), the program will be supported by a consortium of all partner universities multilaterally. It includes an internship at local entities and Japanese teaching support.

○ Trilateral Preparation

We have come to a basic agreement with law faculties / schools of all partner universities to form a consortium for this project. Furthermore, we established contact with departments teaching Japan Studies and/or Japanese language at partner universities and local high schools. We have already reached a basic agreement with some of the institutions.

■ Student-Mobility

○ Outbound

By integrating undergraduate school of Law and LL.M. 1/5 of all students studying at the law faculty are expected to participate in this program.

○ Inbound

Flexibility in arranging schedules etc. is expected to facilitate participation of students in partner universities.

■ Promotion of Student-Mobility Environment

○ Enhanced "Internationality" and English Proficiency of Japanese Undergraduates through Integration of the LL.M.

The following methods will be adopted to increase interest among Japanese students: ① "Internationalizing" freshmen ② Providing courses to enhance English proficiency etc. ③ Increasing opportunities to take TOEFL ④ Providing opportunities to learn together with international students on the LL.M. ④ Encouraging Japanese to enter the LL.M.

○ Hosting Students Based on Our Rich Experience

Our experience shows that Kyushu University is one of the leading Universities hosting international students in Japan. ① Kyushu University hosted 2,078 students in 2011 ② We established ATW in 2001 and AsTW in 2009, both regarded as pioneering SEND programs today ③ Law faculty offers LL.M., LL.D. (1999~), and YLP (2001~) ④ Provision of a "one stop service" support center.

■ Visualization of the Content of Education, Dissemination of the Outcomes

○ Creation of Webpage and Research Presentations

By creating a new webpage, we will distribute information of our program through video and/or in real time using SNS. Students participating in this program are expected to present their achievements at ASLI, JSA-ASEAN or our specially convened symposium.

(Kick-off event seminar)

○ Short-term Exchange --- Gate Way to the SEND Program

This primarily consists of ① Training program (including training in local languages & Japanese language teaching support) ② Joint seminars with Law & Japan Studies at partner universities ③ Workshops at local high schools on 3 topics (a "spiral approach") of "Conflict Management", "Cultural Heritage & Cultural Identity", & "Cool Japan Policy" designed mainly for undergraduate students. Students will also undergo internship training & assist in Japanese classes. So far, we have dispatched students to Thailand & Singapore (conducting joint seminars on "Conflict Management" in March 2013), & received students from Chulalongkorn University & Ateneo de Manila

University under the theme of "Heritage & Cultural Identity" this May 2013. A kick-off event seminar was also held in Kyushu University during their visit in Fukuoka.

○ Semester Exchange & Double Degree Program

Designated mainly for the students who have experienced the Short-term exchange (the "upstream spiral"), the program will be multilaterally supported by a consortium of all partner universities. This will include internship at local entities & Japanese language teaching support.

○ Trilateral Preparation

Our professors have been improving the exchange program by visiting partner universities (Law & Japanese Studies) & high schools, in preparation for the exchange programs as well as to gather feedback. Furthermore, students from Chulalongkorn University Demonstration School & National University of Singapore, Japanese Studies visited Fukuoka for interactions with our students in May 2013.

■ Student-Mobility

○ Outbound

By integrating the undergraduate school of Law & LL.M. It is expected that about 1/5 of all law faculty students will participate in this program. In addition, one of the students who participated last March 2013 in Singapore & Thailand was selected as the lone representative of Japan for "International Youth Forum" to be hold in June 2013.

○ Inbound

In order to increase students' interaction with our partner Universities, & high schools, we will provide a high-quality exchange program that includes workshops & other activities to be lead by our students.

■ Promotion of Student-Mobility Environment

○ Enhanced "Internationality" & English Proficiency of Japanese undergraduates through Integration w/ LL.M.

The following methods will be adopted to increase interest among Japanese students: ① "Internationalizing" freshmen ② Providing English courses to lower academic year students. ③ Increasing opportunities to take TOEFL ④ Providing opportunities of learning with international students of the LL.M. ⑤ Encouraging Japanese students to enter the LL.M.

○ Hosting Students Based on Our Rich Experience

Kyushu University is one of the leading Universities in hosting international students in Japan. ① Kyushu University hosted 2,080 students in 2013 ② We established ATW in 2001 & AsTW in 2009, both regarded as pioneering SEND programs today ③ Law faculty offers LL.M., LL.D. 【Summary of project】

A comprehensive cooperation program with 4 leading ASEAN universities, namely National University of Singapore, University of Malaya, Chulalongkorn University, and Ateneo de Manila University through short and semester-length exchanges and double degree programs, as well as an internship program under the Spiral Model.

■Forming the University Network with Quality Assurance

•Japan's pioneering LL.M. --- the basis of the Project

•Launched in 1994 as Japan's first ever LL.M. program taught entirely in English, the LL.M. program has provided high quality legal education at global standards to more than 400 graduates now working in various legal fields around the world. The program also partners with top international law schools through credit exchanges.

•Tapping on the success of the current LL.M. course system, the project ensures quality and strengths are shared to the partners through a regular (annual) coordination meeting.

• Installation of the External Evaluation Committee (2014)

•In order to maintain and improve the program, experts from various disciplines were tapped to give feedback and recommendations as members of the External Evaluation Committee.

■Contents of the Programs

•Short-term Exchange --- Gate Way to the SEND Program

In 2012 and 2013, under the themes of Cultural Heritage and Conflict Management, the following were initiated: 1. Training prior to dispatch (includes ASEAN language and Japanese-language teaching trainings). 2. Seminar classes that focused on the themes. 3. Workshops with students of university partners (Law and Japan Studies). Additionally, workshops with ASEAN high schools and 1-day internships with local Japanese companies were also conducted. For 2014, with Cultural Heritage and Cultural Identity as the focal theme, the "Cool Japan Policy" was also included in the program. Furthermore, on March 2014, students from the 4 partner universities joined Kyushu University students for a special program in Okinawa. From the bilateral exchanges until this point, the

Malaysia Short-term visit 2013

Okinawa program gave the opportunity for multilateral exchanges that fostered deeper understanding on the diverse ASEAN and Japanese cultures. A total of 64 outbound and 35 inbound students have benefited from the program as of 2013.

•Semester Exchange, Internship & Double Degree Program

Customized programs were also created for upper-class students and graduate students. On 2013, 1 student went to NUS and helped introduce Japanese culture to the locals. Likewise, together with the University of Malaya, a long-term internship program for the Asia-Pacific Regional Office for the Hague Conference. Double degree agreements with partner law faculties are now under discussions for the targeted completion in 2014

■Student-Mobility

•Outbound

In 2013, 42 students have participated in the exchange programs. Of the total, 1 was for semester exchange, and another for a long-term internship program. For 2015, a new Global Vantage Program will integrate the law undergrad and the LL.M. through 1. Internationalization and improvement of English language ability of the students. 2. Creation of a Mobility program that can fill the gap between graduation and the entry into the graduate studies or the workplace.

•Inbound

In order to increase students' interaction with our partner Universities, & high schools, we will provide a high-quality exchange program that includes workshops & other activities to be lead by our students.

■Promotion of Student-Mobility Environment

•Enhanced "Internationalization" & "English Proficiency"

To enhance the internationalization of the Japanese student, lecture in English for small-group classes, more opportunities to take TOEFL exam, and exchanges with Kyushu University foreign students, will be promoted.

•Staff Development

Provide support and information before, during, and after participation in the program.

•Hosting Students Based on Our Rich Experience

Kyushu University is one of the leading Universities in hosting international students in Japan by providing a "one stop service" support center for foreign students.
