

“Review of Internationalization in my university; expectations and realities”

3. Information

Sapna Sinha (Nagoya University)

Kana Yamase (Meiji University)

Team “Double Mei-Dai”

Current Situation

Less Information Shared
=
Less Interaction
=
Less Internationalization!

Inequality of receiving information between international students and Japanese Students (time & amount)

Lack of language skills and cross-cultural understandings (especially of staffs and people outside of universities)

Inequality of Receiving Information between International & Japanese Students

Facilities

Signs, Announcements

E-mails / Webpages/ Information Boards

Event Invitation

Scholarships

Housing, Rentals

Communication with local communities

Old-Age house volunteering

Interaction with Elementary School students

On-Campus Activities

Club/ Circles

Career Support

Part-Time Job

Lack of Language Skills and Cross-Cultural Understandings

- Faculty office staffs
- Bus drivers in campus
- Cafeteria staff
- Volunteering center staff
- Librarians

School Staffs

- Extra-curricular activities

Professors, Coaches and Japanese
Students

- Doctors and Nurses

Outside of Schools

Expectations

Equal opportunity and same amount of information at the same time

More cooperation of the staff i.e.
doctors, local communities etc.

Multi-cultural society
evolves

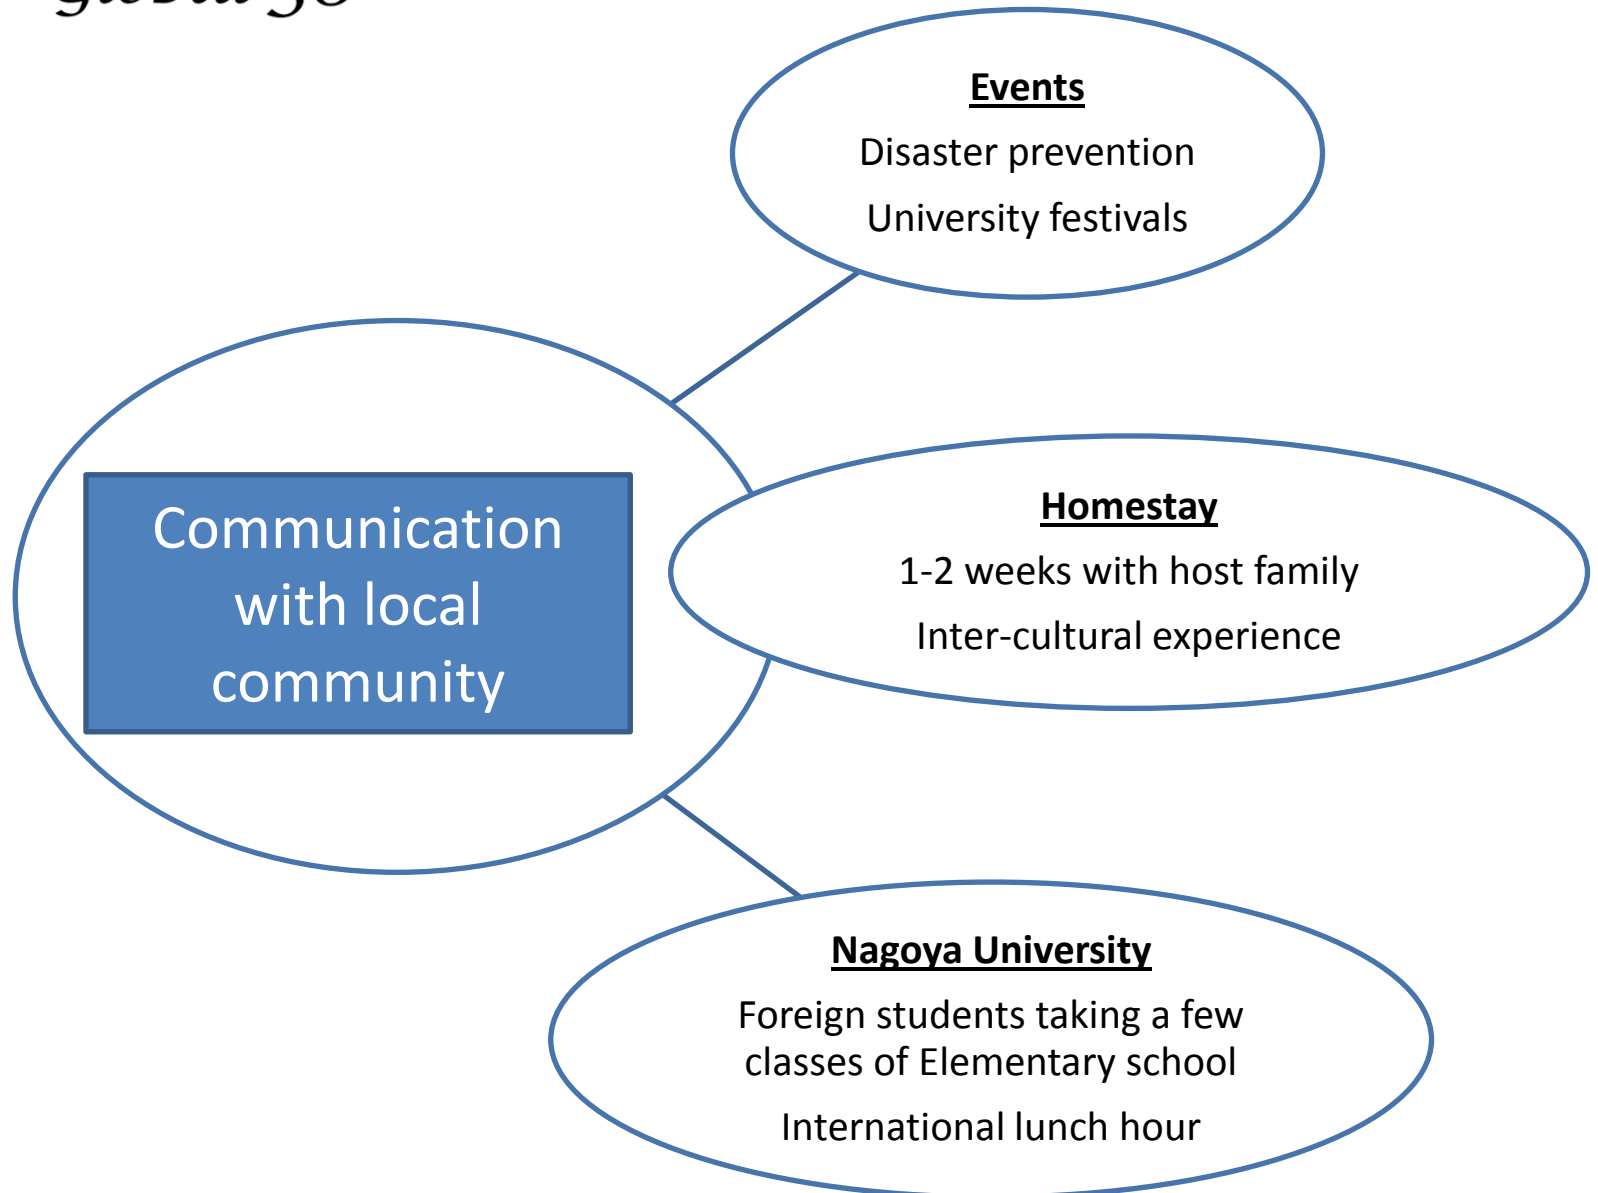

Actions

Other measures:

1. Universities link with companies interested in taking foreign students and list them.
2. FB page, mailing lists, information translated in English
3. Sign boards/notices in two or more languages

Actions

E-Newsletter

English-Japanese-X

- Information available to both Japanese and International students
- We all make some effort

Clubs and Student Committee

More involvement

- Flyers – Both languages
- Involving students to solve problem

Bilingual students

Of the students by the students for the students

- Part time job
- Mutual understanding

Integration

International student awareness – more effort

Understanding of the foreign students

Harmony between the facilities and the international students
