- Lecture title (講演題目): (in English) Studying Science in a foreign country

(in Japanese)

- Lecture summary (講演概要): Please summary your lecture 200-500 words.

When I was preparing this lecture, I tried to think what 1st year high school students want to know. Rather than giving a lecture that I want to explain, I want to give a lecture that audiences want to know. Indeed, the host teacher was asking me the same thing. He suggested that the most important thing for high school students is their future direction because they soon have to make the most important decision of their life; Will I go to a university or get a job. Therefore, I prepared my lecture to show 1st year high school students 1) how I became a scientist 2) how I obtained degrees 3) why I decided to study abroad. To do this, I organized my talk chronologically; my high school years, the university years, the graduate study and the post doctoral training. This way I was able to tell the student how I made important and difficult decisions in each step. The second focus of my talk was about what becoming a scientist means. I explained advantages and disadvantages of living as a scientist. The third focus was to stimulate students about science. I showed the students not only why sciences are important to society but also why science can be fun. I spent a few minutes at the end of the talk to explain what my research is about.
