(in Japanese) 女性の政治的代表性: 世界的トレンドとアジア民主主義への示唆

- Lecture summary (講演概要): Please summary your lecture 200-500 words.

In the first part of the lecture, the fellow introduced herself, specifically focusing on her motivations for becoming a social science researcher as well as the kinds of tasks she fulfills as a researcher in her daily life today.

The second part of the lecture mainly involved introducing students to key concepts in women and politics research. Women hold an average of 21.9% of seats in national parliaments worldwide, although they constitute half the world's population. The fellow introduced women's political under-representation as an important puzzle, and listed structural and cultural factors behind this social phenomenon. Next, the lecture looked into the kinds of public policies (e.g., gender quotas) and strategies adopted by governments and political parties to address the problem. The lecture ended by focusing on the Japan and Korea as two important cases. The goal of this final section was for the students to understand fundamental challenges women face in politics, as well as the kinds of strategies needed to improve the conditions for women in the two East Asian democracies.
