An introduction to research on education and social change in Bhutan

(in Japanese)

- Lecture summary (講演概要): Please summary your lecture 200-500 words.

This talk begins by discussing my experience as student in the United States. Next, I will talk about my work experiences with international organizations, including the Peace Corps, the United States Institute of Peace, and America-Mideast Educational and Training Services. These organizations all do work to improve education in developing countries and also help build international relationships. I will then discuss why these experiences motivated me to begin a PhD at Oxford University in England. This lecture will conclude with an overview of my doctoral and postdoctoral research, which examines the history of education in Bhutan and current education initiatives that conserve culture and traditions, some of which date back to the founding of the country in the 1600's, while preparing young people for life in a changing society.
